MISSOURI GUARD PARADES, HONORS INDIAN WAR VETERAN Dr. John Smithers, 83, of St. Louis Among Those Cited in

Brigade Order. NEVADA, Mo., Aug. 19 (AP).— Dr. John Smithers, St. Louis, 83year-old veteran of the Indian wars, was guest of honor at a parade of Missouri National Guard at Camp Clark today. He stood on the reviewing stand with Gen. Lewis H. Means as the 138th Infantry marched by.

A brigade order was read at the review by Capt. E. E. Hensley, Adjutant of the 138th, citing the Indian War veterans. It said: "In recognition of the valiant and faithful service of the veterans of the Indian campaigns, the entire personnel of the Missouri National Guard is justly proud to pay tribute to those gallant fighters who blazed the trail for the white man that our great civilization might spread westward."

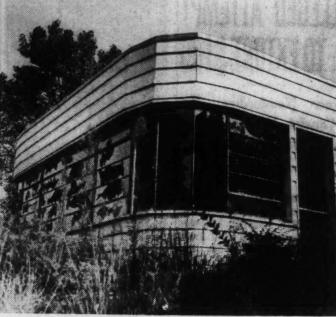

Dr. Smithers was the only one of eight Indian War Veterans invited here to make the journey.

They ask that the will be set aide on the ground that Father Kister, who was 67 years old at the time of his death May 22, was mentally incapable of making a will when he prepared it in October, 1926. Officers of the organizations, they contend, exerted undue influence on him.

The will directed that the bulk of the estate be divided in four equal parts for St. Liborius School to provide free text books; St. Louis Mars.

An orchestra leader in Cincinnati, Mr. Benjamin was brought here by Patrick Short, manager of the Clyell, 23 years old, of Des Arc; Mrs. Ina Lyell, 21, and their daughter, Peggy, 2. The family returned to Des Arc several months ago from St. Louis, where Lyell had been employed for a time by an electric manufacturing commin's direction, soon attracted a large following. Texas Led in Shutdown. Texas, the nation's largest oil producer, led in a production shutdown this week after Sinclair Prairie Oil Marketing Co. had slashed its crude purchasing price by 20 cents a barrel and other companies had followed suit. Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Arkansas and Louisiana joined Texas quickly in turning off the spigots on two-thirds of the nation's oil production. Sadler, in his wire to Ickes, said state regulatory bodies "have successfully met the attack of the Standard Oil Co. and its affiliates in their vicious attempt to rule or ruinn the industry," and "it strikes me your statement is poorly timed and uncalled for."

Ernest O. Thompson, of the Interstate Oil Compact Comssion, insisted the oil states are handling their problems well "without Federal control." He added: "It's just a case of using the power that is theirs without running to Washington for everything under he sun.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., Senator J. C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, chairman of the fact-finding Temporary Na-Economic Committee, exressed hope that a hearing opening Sept. 18 in Washington would roduce facts necessary for recom mending congressional legislation to untangle the oil problem.

"In Deplorable Condition." "Anyone can see by these recent ents that the oil industry is in deplorable condition," he said. Most of the business on which full employment depends is national business, and there has been R formula by which business can be adjusted to local conditions.

"This is illustrated in the oil industry where large companies which carry on the industry seem to occupy a field which is not adeuately covered by either state or national law.

"The anti-trust laws, whether state or national, never have been effective in preventing price fixing and it has seemed to make no dif ference who happened to be enorcing the law.

RICKEY

Cincinnati yesterday following a trip taken by himself and Ray Blades to Columbus. You may have supposed it was about Pitcher Andrews and this year's race; but in reality it concerned Pitcher Lanier, who last year had a trial with the Redbirds.

RICKEY TOLD a Post-Dispatch man: "I took, Blades to Cardinal farm system, is working for next year. This year's race can take care | Columbus with me because I wanted him to see Pitcher Lanier. My what a pitcher he is! And what a pitcher he's going to be! I wanted Blades to see him. No, Lanier didn't win last night but he's a great pitcher just the same. You see I'm thinking of 1940. He'll be a big help to us next year. What a pitcher!"

That isn't all. Rickey is coming home right away. The neessity of classifying all players in the Cardinal organizations before the draft period requires his presence here, he says, Of course, the high position of the Cardinals doesn't hold out

conclusion that Ambers is almost certain to win next Tuesday. They believe that no boxer, of today would overlook such a grand chance to draw another big gate in case of an Armstrong defeat, The thought is more or less of No Toe-to-Toe Stuff.

an insult to two fine boys who have always given the public everything they had, when in the ring.

Step On It, Mike.

MIKE JACOBS' arrival on the ground at Detroit for the Pastor-Louis title fight in mid-Septem ber indicates that he brought his tire pump West. After looking over the advance sales, Mike plugged in his aircharger and shot several atmospheres into the ticket department with the result that when the gauge was read it showed ticket reservations to date totaled close to $150,000.

"It's the greatest advance demand for tickets I have ever seen. It reminds me of the second Dempsey-Tunney fight 1927. When I went into the office then with Tex Rickard, reservations were piled three feet high on the desks. This early demand is the closest thing to it,' Mike commented

From which Mike deduces bigger gate than the $680,000 by the Braddock-Lewis fight.

Well, perhaps it's not all air, weight title or a battle between them at the welterweight limit for population area, embracing sev-

FANS CAN'T EXPECT any of the toe-to-toe stuff which almost gave ringsiders palpitation of the pump when Galento fought Louis. However, not all fighters who win rush in and slug. Champions of the past who fought a backaway fight and came through are numerous, and none more notable than Gene Tunney and James J. Corbett. One beat the mighty Dempsey, the other dropped the invincible John L. Sullivan using such tactics.

However, Dempsey was rusty from long idleness, and Sullivan was a bloated shell at the time of their respective defeats. We can't build too strongly on such examples, because, in Louis, Pastor will be fighting a man who so far has proved better in every way and who now is at the very peak of his career. If Bob plans a Parthian battle

GUNNERS COULD USE SOME MORE TACKLES, ENDS

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS. Mo. Aug. 19 .- With a week's conditionng under their belts all indications point to a Gunner team that will average around 205 pounds when the professionals answer the whistle for the game with the College All-Stars, Sept. 8, at Walsh Stadium.

the coaching staff is how much speed can be derived or generated from this tonnage. Developments of the first phase of the training, as indicated by the results of the past week, reveal everal outstanding individual players and the steady improvement of the entire gathering. On the other hand, there is a definite shortage of ends and one or two additional tackles would improve the building of the forward wall.

Peterson Is Real Star. Perhaps the surprising perform ance of Nelson Peterson in the backfield and the definite come-back of Sandy Sandberg have combined to give Head Coach Choppy Rhodes the most satisfaction. Peerson, who last year performed in the National League, was rated a first-class ball carrier but Rhodes did not expect to find such a classy, finished performer as the West Virginia boy has been so far.

Sandberg, one of the real veterans of the squad, has shed a surprising mount of bulk and his 220 pounds is now hardened muscle. should prove one of the outstanding tackles of the circuit.

Tommy Thompson's passing leaves little to be desired. Although it is too early to judge results, the rangy Tulsa graduate has been snapping passes to all angles with surprising accuracy.

If Thompson, Johnson, Ellstron and Coffey make up a starting backfield the average is well above 200. Peterson, a smaller back packs about 180 pounds, but has the speed of a sprinter.

in the ranks of the Cardinals for the honor of the league's most valuable player, especially if the Redbirds gon on to make it a year of another spectacular dash to the pennant. Usually the award goes to a member of the pennant winning team, though occasionally a man stands out so prominently that he draws the prize regardless of where his team fin-

If you prefer to give the nod to a pitcher, Curt Davis, the hardworking righthander, easily can command attention. He worked in and out of turn during the early months of the campaign; he is certain to finish with more than 20 victories and with a little luck he might bag 25 decisions before Sep-

There are many observers, however, who hesitate to give the honor to a hurler, unless as in the case of a Dizzy Dean or a Dazzy Vance, he stands head and shoulders above his comrades. The pitcher rarely works more frequently than every fourth day and a team could be far down, unless registered victories between not be out of place on the brow of one James Robertson Brown, the doughty little infielder of the Cardinals. Jimmy has moved from second to short and back to second, a difficult thing for a player to do, but he has carried on at either position with eagerness and brilliance. He has for a good part of this and other years and point out dozens of games that he saved of the season led the league in making most hits. He has a with spectacular catches and fine fighting spirit. He has throws of amazing accuracy and been bruised in line of duty, upset by base runners. He has played with stiff shoulder by a batting average that is not cles and despite heavy colds that would have chased less couraskill. But despite that the Cardigeous players to the hospital, or nals feel that they become a the bench. He has hustled, he has been the sparkplug of the Cardinal attack and brilliantly steady on the defense

Some observers may object that Jimmy is not the heroic figure required for the honor. He doesn't knock down fences. He doesn't ompete for home run honors. But there's more to baseball than long-distance hitting. And Jimmy Brown, playing for every inch of ground in every minute of every game, is a heroic figure to us. He's a little man with big stuff.

If Mize does win the batting championship, he'll get many votes for the most valuable honor and a pennant for the Redbirds probably would make Big John a schedule that other finalists could favorite with observers in other cities. European Political Situation Pall Hangs Over Wall Street And Stocks Dip for Fourth Week

Share List Has Given Up Most of Its July Gains-Average Off 1.42 Points for the 6-Day Period.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP).-Security markets and underwriting activities during past week seemed adversely affected by the mounting agitation for a showdown on Poland, Germany's display of massed might on Poland's borders and militarization of Slovakia.

Stocks were off for the fourth consecutive week. The week's decline was the sharpest since late June, amounting to 1.4 points in the Associated Press composite price of 60 stocks. Dow-Jones lost 1.46 points. Bonds also slipped and most commodities felt the weight of precautionary selling. The share market now has given up most of its July gains, despite the further improvement of business.

A burst of selling Friday gave the market its worst day of the week. This was attributed to the desire of speculative forces to shelve commitments in order to be on the safe side if matters abroad took a turn for the worse over the week end. Offerings were principally of a "professional" character, however, and brokers reported most important investment holdings were still intact.

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, AUGUST 20, 1939.

PAGES 1-8G

HE major social event of the week was put on at the Rumanian Pavilion at the Fair, premises that have enjoyed considerable smart vogue because of the music and the fine gardens and which are now rating under the management of Gene of the Colony, associated with Fefe Ferry of Monte Carlo fame. Gene has taken over the restaurant, lock, stock and cellar, the last of which items was badly in need of enlightened refurbishing and now the place is just a Flushing Meadows branch of the Colony itself. Every one commented on the magnificence of the caviar at the opening, it being a season of something less than mediocre fish eggs, but Gene had obtained vast quantities of the best gray roe, as big, almost, as tapioca. The William Paleys, the Byron Foys, the Angier Biddle Dukes and Capt. Alastair MacIntosh, all were floating around in puddles of Perrier Jouet and urging each other to try some more of Gene's fabulous Stasburg foi gras.

Every one went up to the roof for the fireworks in the Lagoon and paused on the way down to congratulate Franklin Hughes on the relighting and decorations of the pavilion. -0-0-

The staff management at the Rumanian Pavilion just about top anything else at the Fair if you pause to consider that Gene, Fefe, Hughes and Mary Anita Loos, in the capacity of publicist, and Dick Brugiere, as house photographer, are supported by a complete cast of Colony waiters, captains and wine stewards, that the chef is Victor Neagu, Rumania's foremost cordon bleu, and that the music is provided by Grigorias Dinicu, the celebrated violinist-composer, and Fanica Luca, whose "pipes of Pan" have created a major sensation both here and at the Paris Exposition. Toss in for good measure such cash customers as the Frederick Frelinghuysens, the Herbert Westons, the Jay O'Briens, Randy Burke and Mrs. Jules Chaqueneau and you have a pretty top-drawer set-up.

ANECDOTE HOLDS that upon the occasion of a diplomatic reception a number of years ago, so great was the press of celebrities at the White House that President Grant, recalling a face but forgetting the name, inquired of an aid who was the next gentleman in line. Major Schurz, sir," was the answer, and as Carl Schurz came abreast hopefuls who apply at the studio of him the President beamingly introduced him: "Gentlemen, my haber- gates, asking for a chance to make lasher; makes the best damn shirts in Washington!"

Nobody will ever disremember, however, either of the brothers Walter and Sam McCrory, who are shirtmakers to Manhattan's super de luxe trade and the foremost advocates and prophets of whoopsing and ord shows, that Ricardo Cortez, screaming colors in gents' furnishings. They've been doing it for years born Jacob Kranz, was given his and from their West Forty-sixth street stand they've done more to con-quer masculine inhibitions about color than all the edicts of the style rts put together.

The late Odd McIntyre probably was their most notable exploiter, but such notables as Roy Howard, William B. Leeds and Johnny Weissmuller are no slouches as advertisements for their lurid patterns, and assorted others, including W. Averill Harriman, Harold Talbott and Nick Schenck are constantly clapping greedy eyes on their latest bolts of pique and China silk.. The brothers McCrory are Scotch-Irish, graying, gay and persuasive. If trade is slack they stand in the doorway of their shop and sing Scotch ballads and in the days of the great foolishness they maintained a handsome bar which swung out from behind the showcase which featured evening accessories. The idea was to get the customer mellow enough to buy scads of ties and waistcoats, but often enough it was the brothers McCrory who got slanted and would give away half their stock in trade to old friends before the afternoon was over.

ONE of the weakest, most serious defenses of wrong-doing is the plaintive, "He made me do "Well, she coaxed me." If we could get children to understand that nobody under the sun can compel their wills and that they, and they only, control their actions, we could save them much grief.

Daniel, -- Patri

Every Child Ought to

Know Story of This Bibli-

One child is stronger than another in will and purpose and he does his best to sway the weaker one, with success, usually. When the settlement for the error has to be made, and it cannot be avoided, the stronger one goes his way blithe y. He gets out of it somehow. He has used the weaker one for his purpose and covered his own wrong-doing. All the victim can manage for himself is, "He made me do it."

We have to try to strengthen the soul of the helpless one. Begin by attending to his body, building up health. Guard his diet, his hours of sleep, play, recreation of all sorts. Watch to help him find the best possible associates so their influence can be used for his strengthening. Feed him well. Do what you can to stimulate his spiritual ourage. Here he is weakest,

I THINK that every child, strong or weak, ought to know the story of Daniel by heart. Until Daniel's spirit is in him he will follow the crowd, lie down under pressure, sacrifice his principles, lose his soul, and die indeed. The story of Daniel told and retold, ought to inspire the children to stand up for what they believe to be right for them nd dare the consequences. Of that stuff martyrs are made. few are called to make a major sacrifice all are called upon to choose between right and wrong, and often they must suffer for their choice as the martyrs did, but they also triumph and learn the glory of being men and women.

Extra Jackets

College girls are setting up a hue and cry for extra jack-ets to pack in their ward-robes. One of the favored jackets is the reversible one, of camel's hair cloth on one side, and bright plaid woolen on the other. A matching hood and a skirt of the plaid can be used to make the jacket into an ensemble.

Another popular jacket is the polar bear jacket, known locally as the Panda jacket. Of cardigan length in a shaggy fleecy fabric, the Panda is a typical college girl jacket. Corduroy jackets, jackets of velveteen used with plaid skirts, and a jacket known as Lamikins, and made of a fabric resembling the polar bear fabric except that it fect, are among the other wardrobe extras. Sweater enthusiasts have taken to the knitted or angora cardigan worn as a jacket over dresses.

THE SCREEN STAGE PLAYS AND MUSIC PREMIERE FOR FINALE

LL over this broad land of ours the controversy will soon be raging as to whether "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" or "The Wizard of Oz" is the more delightful fantasy. Those arguing will be grown-ups, since only grown-ups take their fantasies seriously. Perhaps the greater number of adherents will still be won by Snow White, Dopey and the Six Other Guys.

Personally, after a look and a half at "The Wizard of Oz," at Loew's Theater, I am a "Wizard of Oz" fan. Rather, I like Judy Garland better than I liked Snow White, I prefer Margaret Hamilton as the Wicked Witch to the Wicked Queen of 1938, and, while I do not put Bert Lahr ahead of Dopey, my preference is for, Eddie Collins, the comedian from whom Dopey was copied. Mr. Collins is giving riotous service to the Jones family in "Quick Millions," at the Mis-

The plain truth is that "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "The Wizard of Oz" excel in different fields. No one will question the pre-eminence of "Snow White" as a wonder of the modern artistic world, on the basis of labor expended and ingenuity involved. And its free fantasy-the little bluebird that hit a sour note, the squirrels that swept the dirt under the rug, the raven that hopped from one eye of a skull to another-is unexcelled. "The Wizard of Oz" indeed has few such inventions to match the examples given.

On the other hand, the way Snow White's mouth wiggled over her face was always distressingly unanatomical. And her emotions were as crude as those of Betty Boop. The Prince, to put it mildly, was a washout. This is to say that a cartoon is not a cartoon when it gets too realistic. Animals, with Donald Duck as the prime example, may behave like human beings but believable human beings, with whom we identify ourselves, cannot be created on the drawing card. Even Dopey's success, it might be pointed out, rested in the fact was that he was more of a cartoon than a human being. Blondie, on the screen, is better than the sketches from which she was copied.

In exchange for the numerous whimsies of "Snow White," "The Wizard of Oz" offers an inherent jolliness and human warmth, a wisdom, as for example in the Wizard's speeches, that can be carried away from the theater, and song lyrics that have been the quality of those in Gilbert and Sullivan. "Over the Rainbow" is perhaps the number destined to be the hit song from the new film but the whole work abounds in melodies. And what a song-plugger little Miss Garland is, in addition to being a fine dramatic actress.

Any summary of the show's merits should not overlook one excep-tionally fine Kansas cyclone, the exceedingly droll Munchkins, played by the Singer Midgets, the very enjoyable Bert Lahr, and Victor Fleming's gentle direction.

There is a second feature at Loew's, called "Parents on Trial." Coming out of the theater, this reoverheard a conversation about it between two young citizens. "What's the second picture?" asked the first lad, dashing pellmell to the box office. "Oh, it's some old thing called Parents on the Trail," his companion shouted. It might as well be called that.

C HARING the honors with "The Wizard of Oz" this week is another major film of the year "Stanley and Livingstone," which arrived at the Fox last Wednesday, was duly reviewed on Thursday and continues on the calendar during the coming four days. It is a substantial record of the famous trip that Henry M. Stanley (Spencer Tracy) made into Africa in 1871, to find the missing mis-sionary and explorer, Dr. David Livingstone (Sir Cedric Hardwicke). Anyone who has the courage to read Stanley's 692-page account of the journey, called "How I Found Livingstone," will realize that the amount of research done by the movie makers was not overwhelmnting the truth not above the Hollywood average. It wouldn't be nice to say that Stanley used a bull whip on his native carriers, that he joined native rulers in a shooting party at the expense of their enemies, that he thought the white men who went along with True, she may achieve stardom as Mrs. Browne-Potter once did by reciting "Ostler Joe" at a Park Avenue party. It was rather an inoffensive poem except that it mentioned a fallen woman. This was daring enough then to cause Mrs. Browne-Potter's name to be canceled from the guest lists of New York's ultra-ultra society. Being a woman of wit she used that rather dublous fame as a springboard to stardom and from that, ironically, she regained her social position by becoming a favorite of London's royalty.

Gay Parties for Racing Season At Saratoga

News of Other St. Louisans Leaving for Various Types of Late Summer Holidays From New York.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. HE grandstands are jammed and the paddocks are full at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where the August horse races are now in full, swing. Mrs. Julius Walsh is up there visiting Mr. and Mrs. Samnel D. Riddle, and Mr. and Mr. M. W. Warne Niedringhaus motor over often from Bolton's Landing on Lake George, where they are spending the summer. Before going out to the track on a recent after-noon, Mr. and Mrs. Niedringhaus gave a luncheon for Mr. and Mrs. ferome G. Meyer at the Gideon Putnam Hotel.

For 11 months out of the year people go to the springs to take the cure at this health resort and rock away the hours on the Vicorian Hotel's extensive porches, but on Aug. 1, society figures and their blue ribboned steeds go to the spa and transform it into something fashionably horsey. Whitneys, Goelets, Guggenheims and Vanderbilts take a house for the month and their house parties are as much a part of the program as afternoons at the track.

Races have been going on up there in much the same way for 75 years. The one big change is in transportation methods. Instead of an all-day surrey ride, fans arrive by airplane. Mr. and Mrs. James Cox Brady Jr. came via the airways from Hyannisport. On opening day, Mrs. Dodge Sloane drew up on a siding in her private car, and was at the track just in time to see one of her horses win

Hardly a week end goes by that doesn't find one or two St. Louisans visiting friends at Southampton Miss Peggy Wendling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wendling, and her fiance, Quincy Thorndike, were out there recently with Mr and Mrs. Thomas H. Wright. This week end, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Pettit Warren have come from Washing ton to visit Mr. and Mrs. Dwight F Davis at Bayberry Land. Mrs. Warren is the former Stella Wade

Mrs. Samuel C. Davis Jr. has just arrived at this Long Island resort to spend several weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall, at their summer place, known as Larevo.

Instead of taking a house for the summer at Eastern Point, Conn., as they have done for many years, Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Holmes have varied the program this year with a cruise and a visit in New Jersey. They chartered the yacht Harwell here in New York and started off July 12 on a leisurely cruise up the Atlantic seaboard. On their way to Nantucket, their most northern port, they put in at Woods Hole, Hyannisport and other harbors along the coast. After completing the cruise, Mr. and Mrs. Holmes were at the Plaza for a few days early this week. They have now gone to Beach Haven, N. J., to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Boyer, who have a house there for the summer. Mrs. Boyer is the former Mary Brooks Holmes. The Boyers and their three children live outside of Philadelphia at Cold Point,

Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness was at the Ambassador for a short stay early this week. Previously she had been in Nashville, Tenn., visiting her mother, Mrs. Robert F. Jackson. Mrs. Jackson came East with her daughter. Miss Eunice, and will be at the Ambassador for several weeks.

Winter and spring were once the seasons for Nassau and Bermuda, but recently summertime has come to the front down there, and Americans crowd these small British islands during July and August. Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson and her daugher, Mrs. John Hylan Heminway, have been at the Castle Harbour in Tuckerstown, Bermuda, for two weeks. They will be back in New York on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew Brown had planned to spend their vacation on Cape Cod, but changed their plans at the last moment in favor of Nassau. They sailed today on the Lancastria with Mrs. prother-in-law and sister. Mr. and Mrs. John Allan Love Jr. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Love are daughters of Mrs. Harold W. Simpkins. WOODS HOLE, Mass., Aug. 19. W OODS HOLE, the meeting place of many celebrated scientists because of its Marine Biological Laboratory and the Oceanographic Institute, was the scene of an interesting meeting this week. Social functions in honor of the visitors included formal dinner parties, a Saturday night dance at the M. B. L. Club, picnics and sailing parties.

Gov. and Mrs. Lloyd C. Stark. with their young daughters, Molly and Katherine, arrived unexpectedly on the beach last Saturday. State trooper drove Gov. and Mrs. Stark to the beach, where new shingled bathhouses have replaced the old ones destroyed by the hurning the Starks were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gilson Gray of New York, formerly of St. Louis, at a beach party given in honor of the Starks and Mr. and Mrs. James Strubing of New York, house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gray.

The Woods Hole Golf Club had open house for its members and friends Sunday evening. Mrs. Rodes entertained a large party in honor of the Starks, and that night Mr. and Mrs Malcolm Jenny of Boston and Woods Hole gave an informal supper party in honor of Missouri's Governor and his wife.

Monday Samuel Plant gave a sailing party for Gov. and Mrs. Stark aboard Lili Ann, sailing from Woods Hole across Buzzards Bay to Mattapoisett, where the New York Yacht Club was at anchor for a day on its cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims entertained for the Starks Wednesday with a barbecue under the larches on their estate. OPERA which proudly presents the American Premiere of the Glorious Modern Musical Romance

ICTORIA and her HUSSAR

as the Final Production of the 1939 Season Week Beginning Tomorrow Night

This musical spectacle scored a tremendous success in leading European cities, including London, which originally staged "Wild Violets" and "Glamorous Night," two spectacular hits given first American performances at the Municipal Opera.

Paul Abraham, one of the greatest of contemporary operetta posers of the stage and screen, has written a captivating score of lilting songs. London critics have described the music as the kind which "lingers in the memory of the listeners. Outstanding numbers are "Pardon Madame," "Land of Song, "Do-Do," "Star of My Night," "Mousie" and "Good-Night."

The book has been acclaimed as one of the finest writings ever put together for the stage anywhere. So excellent is the story that it could be presented without the great music and still be successful. Famous librettists are responsible for the tale, which offers thrilling backgrounds in modern Siberia, Russia, Japan and Hungary.

An unbeatable combination of talent has been engaged for the final production. HELEN GLEASON, outstanding soprano of the New York Metropolitan Opera Co., star of the 1936 Municipal Opera season, returns, as does HOPE MANNING, prima donna star of last summer's "Gentlemen Unafraid. Current season favorites are LANSING HATFIELD, ROBERT CHISHOLM, DORIS PATSTON, CHARLES KEMPER, BILLY TAYLOR and others.

The great international dancer, NIMURA, who has been described as the greatest dancer since Nijinski, will make his St. Louis debut in the new production.

BE A FIRST NIGHTER! Attend tomorrow night's performance so you can be the first in America to carry away the thrills of a sure-fire smash hit. All Europe has acclaimed "Victoria and Her Hussar" as tops. The entire North American continent will hear the vociferous applause and cheering at the end of the opening performance.

FOUR SPECIAL FALL TOURS ANNOUNCED BY AMER, EXPRESS

special fall tours via the Cunard White Star liner "Queen Mary" have recently been announced by the American Express Two will sail Sept. 6 and two Sept. 20.

Two four weeks' tours will feaure rural England by motor, Hol-and, Brussels, the Rhine, the Alps, and Paris, while the five-week trips will include the Italian lake district, Venice, Florence and Rome. In Holland, automobiles will be used for visits to The Hague, Haarem, Monnikendam, the Isle of Marken, Amsterdam and other cities. In Brussels travelers will have a full day for sightseeing and shopping, and from that city they may have a choice of routes to Switzerland. One route proceeds via Strasbourg, capital of Alsace another leads through Cologne to the River Rhine. The Swiss itinerary will also include Interlaken, whence the shorter tours will pro ceed to Paris for three days. The longer tours will proceed over the scenic Simplon route to Stresa and the famous Italian lakes. In Milan the famous cathedral with its hundreds of statues, as well as the painting "The Last Supper," will be high lights of the stay. In Venice tour parties will travel on the canals, exploring its famous St. Mark's Cathedral and visiting the Palace of the Doges. Florence and Rome will complete the Italian itinerary.

SHEEP DOG TRIALS TO BE HELD IN SCOTLAND

at the International Trials which will be held in Edinburgh, Sept. 15 to 17.

The trials are held to test efficiency in finding, driving and guiding sheep. As one of the simpler tests a single sheep dog is sent out by his master to locate three sheep which are out of sight be-hind a small hill or rise in the ground. The dog must calm them, keep them together and drive them to a designated place.

As a further test, each dog must drive his sheep to a hurdle, pass it, guide the flock to the center of the field and circle another hurdle with them. He must be able to separate one sheep from a flock and to drive a group of sheep into a small pen. His master may signal him with whistles, signs or the pice, but usually the dog understands the task ahead fully as well as does his owner.

A good sheep dog never bites the sheep, for that would bruise their meals in dining car on train-Washington when sold. He seldom if ever barks and he has what is known as "the eye," an ability to hold the attention of sheep by looking at them. He must be able to inspire his charges with confidence and must be possessed of all the qualities which in men are known as tact.

You would enjoy in Autumn

Vacationists who visit Wisconsin in the autumn frequently feel they have discovered the most wonderful vacation time of all the year. They thrill to the beauty of forests donning their colorful leaves, a green land becoming gold, and brown and red. They wax poetic about the purple haze that cloaks the rolling hills, and about the climate which is still essentially summer, with just a promise of cooler weather to come.

Fishermen, particularly, are enthusiastic about Wisconsin in the fall, for this is the season when the big fish seem to go on a real feeding spree, the season that usually produces the greatest trophies of the Now is a good time to plan an autumn trip to Wisconsin. Whether you come for a week end or a longer time, we're sure you would enjoy it. Send the coupon now for your FREE copy of our book—"56,000 Square Miles of Vacationland," and colorful, illustrated

Hellwig brothers' grading and packing shed at Gumbo. The melons in baskets have just been brought in by farmers and are about to be placed in the numbered bins, each of which is assigned to a particular grower. The melons are moved down the shed, being graded, cleaned crated, checked and labeled on the way, and then go in the truck, seen in the background, for shipment to market.

Crate makers, employed by the shipper on a piecework basis, move about the country as their services are needed, following the season. Lumber for crates, already cut to required sizes when bought, is supplied by the shipper.

HROUGH the Missouri River bottoms of St. Louis County the fragrance of cantaloupes is strong in these days of the melon harvest. From the rich and sandy earth a bumper crop has come, and it occupies close to a thousand acres. About 4000 melons a day, on an average, are being shipped out of the county. Before the harvest ends, around the first of next month, approximately 200,000 bushels of cantaloupes will have been shipped from the region, it is estimated; other thousands of bushels are being fed to hogs or discarded as not up to market standards. The photographs on this page were taken at the 255acre farm of Cliff Wilmas, near Chesterfield, where 50 acres are in cantaloupes, and at the packing shed of Hellwig Brothers, at Gumbo, whence the largest part of the county crop is sent to the markets of the Central States and the East.

Miss Marian Jane Wilmas, daughter of Cliff Wilmas, with an assortment of cantaloupes raised on her father's farm. The cheaper melons are packed 20 or 23 to a crate, the more expensive ones, 12 or 16 to a crate. When the market was high a short time ago, the grower received as much as 65 cents a crate, for the best melons, from the shipper.

These cantaloupes, moving on a conveyor belt, are being checked by the girl at left and labeled with the shipper's name by the two other girls. The melons have been brushed and graded. After crating is completed, they are ready for shipment, unless they are to be waxed and specially refrigerated to preserve them on an unusually long trip.

Committee hearing the Dies Committee hearing at Washington last week it looked as if Fritz Kuhn would get a punch on the nose. The leader of the German-American bund, head of Nazi activity in this country, had rasped defiance at the committee in a heavy German accent, flaring out with angry retorts every once in a while. Then Representative Joe Starnes of Alabama took up the questioning in an aggressive manner.

Shaking a finger at Kuhn, Starnes tried to get him to admit a connection with the German Government. When Starnes barked: "Isn't Mr. Hitler anti-Semitic?" Kuhn snapped, "Aren't you——?" Starnes flushed and clenched his fists, cut short Kuhn's sputtering, and demanded to know if the purpose of the bund was not to establish a Nazi government here.

"That's an absolute lie! A flat lie," Kuhn shouted.
Starnes jumped to his feet, rushed forward a few steps, then halted and shouted, "Don't you call me a liar!"

That gave police time to get in between the men.
Before that Kuhn had testified the bund has 20,000 to 25,000 members and about 100,000 organized sympathizers, that monthly dues run to about $2000, and that he destroyed membership records
"to protect the members." He said he is "absolutely" against Naziism in the United States because "it wouldn't fit."

The Fascist Axis Tries to Pierce Yugoslavia

German-Italian pressure, the struggle for power in the Balkans between the in axis and the British-French front apbe reaching a climax. If the Axis sucdismembering Yugoslavia, the strongest the peninsula, or bringing it into the orbit, its Balkan Entente partners, Rueece and Turkey, might waver in their with the democracies and the whole part of the "encirclement" structure

Germany and Italy can her best customers, taking 53 per cent corts and providing 62 per cent of her And Yugoslavia's minority problem is order for Nazi divide-and-gobble up

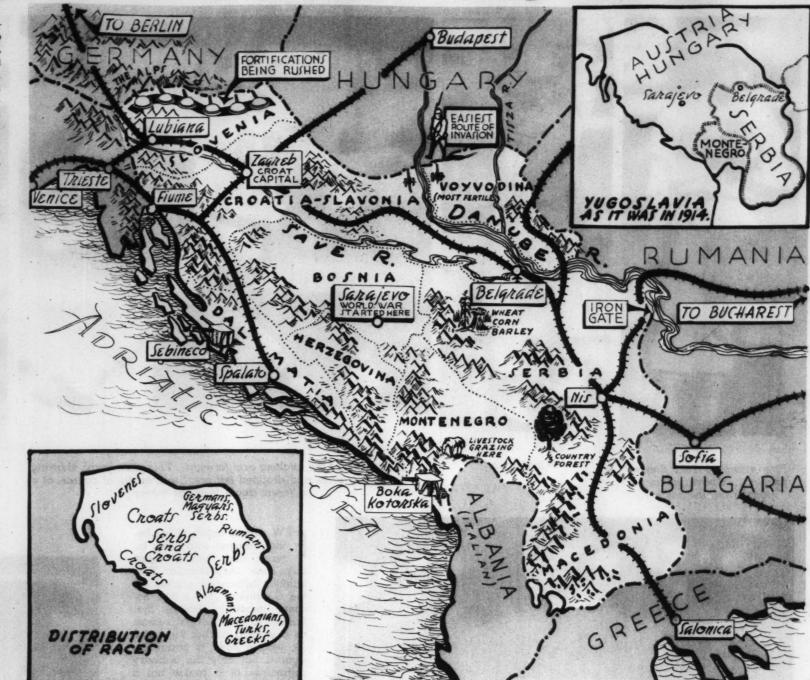

Press has been mounting steadily. Last January Jugoslavia had to agree to give Italy a. in the Mediterranean. Then in April exacted a "faithful collaboration" rince Regent Paul of Yugoslavia visited in May, and Hitler in June. Hitler the inviolability of the Yugoslav-Geror "for all time." While he said it, Slovenes were rioting against Nazi propaganda heing s and by their German minority, and the month Yugoslavia rushed 5000 carloads of tank barriers along her German frontier. She cagily avoided Nazi efforts to have her title axis" with Hungary and Bulgaria issuing a joint declaration of "independence and neutrality" with Bulgaria. Yugoslavs made no secret of their anti-Nazi feelings, although the newspapers did not dare attack Germany by name. There then began an influx of German "tourists" on the Dalmatian coast. intervention and a world war. The country began to store huge food reserves for an emergency, and work on the northern fortifications was hurried. The army of 180,000 was doubled by reserves for maneuvers in the north.

The crowning insult came nine days ago when 1TH Yugoslavia feeling the weight of Germany and Italy demanded a "benevolent neutrality" from Yugoslavia, which would allow the Axis wartime control of Yugoslavian railroads, military and economic centers, war materials and foodstuffs, and the right to use the railroads, valuable in invading Greece and Rumania and supplementing the Brenner Pass connection between the Axis powers. Prince Paul, having got promises of Anglo-French backing, stiffened and refused. The British and French urged Paul to make concessions to the Croat minority so as to settle Yugoslavia's internal quarrel at once.

Almost analogous to the situation in Czechoslovakia that led to its dismemberment by Germany, is that in Yugoslavia, except that the Croats are said to be really badly treated by the Serbs, whereas the Slovak grievances against the Czechs were mostly trumped up. Like the Czechs and Slovaks, the Serbs and Croats are really the same people, descendants of tribes that took over the country in the seventh century. Both the 7,000,000 Serbs and the 4,500,000 Croats speak the same language (the 1,200,000 Slovenes speak a dialect of it) but the Serbs use the Cyrillic script and the Croats the Latin alphabet. The difference is essentially cultural and religious. The Serbs, long under Turkish rule before they gained freedom in 1815, are Greek Orthodox, half-Turkish in culture, primitive and savage fighters. The Croats, for 800 years a semiautonomous Hungarian state, are European, Roman Catholic, better off, more proficient and industrious. The Serbs refused to give the Croats construct artillery emplacements, pill high government or army positions, overtaxed them, beat them for resisting, threw their leader, Macek, in jail on dubious charges. Macek got 40 per cent of the vote at the last election, but he and the other Croats refused to take their seats in Parliament.

The World War began because Austria was jealous of the growing power of Serbia, which had doubled its territory and increased its population by 50 per cent in the 1913 Balkan wars. Vladimir Macek, leader of the Croatian minority. It was touched off by the assassination of the threatened secession, even at the cost of German Archduke Franz Ferdinand by a Serb patriot June 28, 1914, at Sarajevo, in Bosnia, which had been annexed by Austria along with Herzegovina in 1908. If it is not Danzig, then it may again be Yugoslavia where events will shape themselves to furnish the occasion for another great European war.

Prince Regent Paul and Adolf Hitler as the Prince arrived in Berlin last June for a visit in which he was subjected to Nazi pressure. The Prince looked none too happy. He was educated in England, and is believed to be pro-British Prince Paul chatting with Mussolini on the cruiser Trieste, while being subjected to Italian pressure last May. The Prince, first cousin once removed of King Peter II of Yugoslavia, is the chief of three regents created to rule until Peter reaches his majority.

Yugoslavia, where a Balkan crisis is brewing. The country, almost exactly as big as Oregon, was created after the World War to unite the South Slavs, and to weaken Austria-Hungary. It has 7,000,000 Serbs, who rule 4,500,000 Croats, 1,200,000 Slovenes, 500,000 Germans, 400,000 Magyars, 300,000 Albanians, 300,000 Macedonians, 250,000 Rumans, and several hundred thousand other South Slavs, Montenegrins and Turks. It is chiefly agricultural—85 per cent of its populace is engaged in agriculture, stock raising and forestry—has few industries, but much potential water power. Its cereal crop of 359,000,000 bushels in 1937 was 120,000 under that of fertile Rumania, 89,000 over that of Hungary. It also raises potatoes, tobacco, sugar beets, grapes, wool, and produces coal (about 440,000 tons a year). Its trade (exports, $118,518,000; imports, $144,-592,000, in 1937) is done mostly with Germany and Italy. Note the strategic railroads Germany and Italy want to use in time of war. Political divisions shown are old ones.

King Peter 11, now 15, shy, sensitive. An effort has made to toughen him by army training.

Yugoslavian Premier Dragisha Cvetkovich, who turned down the German-Italian "benevolent neutrality" proposal. He is conciliatory towards the Croats.

Alexander Cinca-Markovitch, Foreign Minister of Yugoslavia, had to temper the rebuff to the axis with statements of "friendship."

Croat Leader Vladimir Macek, honest, stubborn. He wants the country divided into autonomous states of Croatia, Macedonia, Montenegro and Serbia.

Riot in Belgrade in 1937 as police broke up procession protesting concordat with the Vatican which placed the Roman Catholic religion of the Croats on equal footing with the Greek Orthodox Church, to which the Serbs belong.

Serbs fought brilliantly in the World War, twice defeating German-Austrian invasion, but in 1915, a combined Bulgarian-Austro-German offensive drove them to the sea. Here is their tragic retreat to the Adriatic. They recuperated on the Greek Island of Corfu, and took part in the victorious Salonika drive of 1918.

Yugoslavia has increased her regular army of 180,000 to 360,000 during the crisis, and has 1,100,000 more trained reserves. The soldiers individually are superb fighters, but they are not well trained in mechanical warfare and lack modern artillery and tanks. The country has 700 war planes; its navy is negligible.

The assassination of King Alexander of Yugoslavia at Marseilles in 1934. The killer, a Macedonian terrorist, Vlada Georgiev, has just fired the shots into the limousine and has been sabered by the mounted soldier. Alexander, a strong man, made himself dictator of Yugoslavia in 1929 after years of turbulent Parliamentary rule under the monarchy.

Pitcher Sunkel of the Cardinals, who is striving to overcome the handicap of impaired vision, due to a traumatic cataract on his left eye.

FEW men in baseball are being watched with more interest and concern these days than unspectacular Tom Sunkel, lefthanded pitcher for the Cardinals. For it has become generally known that Sunkel, in this, his first season as a starting pitcher for a ma-jor league club, is struggling against not only the ordinary difficulties of a rookie but a physical defect which menaces his future as a player. A traumatic cataract on the left eye has progressed so in the last year that he must now depend almost entirely on the other eye for vision. The Cardinal management has had the pitcher examined by eye experts, who have said that surgery would not correct the condition. Apparently Sunkel must over-come the handicap himself if he is to continue in baseball, and the kind of fight he is mak-ing to do it is indicated by his record for the season, as compiled early last week: Four games won, two lost—one of the victories a two-hit shutout against the New York Giants; batting average, .381.

Sunkel is 27 years old and his home is in Paris, Illinois. He was playing with a church team when he was recommended to the Cardinals by L. J. Wylie, now president of the Cardinal "farm" club at Decatur, Illinois. The 1934 season, his first with the Cardinal organization, he spent at Greensburg, Pennsylvania. In 1937, at Decatur, he struck out 215 men in 174 innings, and late that season joined the Cardinals as a relief pitcher. Last year, under option to Atlanta of the Southern Association, he won 21 games and lost five.

Franco's Fascists Freeze Out Spain's Monarchists

General Primo de Rivera seized the Spanish Government in 1923, abolished constitutional guarantees and parliament, and ruled as a dictator until 1930, when unrest caused him to resign. He died in France several months later.

The monarchy, under which Spain was a backward state in which one per cent of the population owned 51 per cent of the land, and 45 per cent of the populace were illiterate, fell in 1931 when King Alfonso XIII abdicated and fled after Republicans won municipal elections three to one.

Azana soon became Premier. His regime was idealistic and progressive, but was lenient to its enemies. Azana was thrown out of office by a Rightist reaction in 1933.

Lerroux, once a revolutionary who turned to the right after he became rich, became Premier. He put down the revolt of the Asturian miners in 1934 by sending Moorish troops against them, killing 1400 miners. Thirty thousand Socialists and Republicans were thrown in jail.

After the Popular Front won a close victory in February, 1936, Azana returned as Premier. The army plotted a coup d'etat. A period of disorder was climaxed by the assassination of Jose Calvo Sotelo (above), the rebel leader, starting civil war prematurely.

At first General Francisco Franco ridiculed the idea of Fascism for Spain, but as he became more indebted to Hitler and Mussolini and more dependent on the Fascist Falange for Spanish support, his Government veered towards Fascism. Here he is with his Cabinet early in 1938 after he made himself Premier of captured territory, Among Franco's supporters were such men as the immensely wealthy Duke of Alba, whose estates had been as large as Belgium, and who represented Franco at London.

n March, tobacco

supplying war ma-

Germany during World War. ITH the reorganization announced 10 days ago by Generalissimo Francisco Franco, the Government of Spain has been definitely cast into Fascist form. The new setup marks a victory for the Falangists (Fascists) headed by Ramon Serrano Suner, Franco's brother-in-law, over the Carlists (Monarchists) which had bitterly disputed the Falange control of the new Government, and marks the finish of a cycle in Spanish rule shown in pictures on this page.

Franco, as President, retains the supreme right to make laws of a general nature and may see a strice of patients.

make laws of a general nature and may issue decrees without consulting the Cabinet, in case of national emergencies. He has kept a tight hold on the armed forces by making himself executive commander of a new national defense council, and has further strengthened his position by abolishing the vice-presidency. Serrano Suner, who as Minister of the Interior and Propaganda, was Franco's chief political guide through the rebellion, became Chief of the Political Board of the Falangist Council. The board became an integral part of the Government, with the privilege of proposing legislation, with the Falangist party having the same official status as the Fascist party in Italy. An effort was made to placate Monarchist generals by appointing two of them to the new Cabinet.

The Fascist victory means strengthening of ties with Germany and Italy. The Carlists, who are pro-British, had wanted simply a return to the feudal status of the monarchy, without the sweeping and often basic changes of Fascism. Their candidate for King had been Don Alfonso Carlos of the senior Bourbon line until his death in 1936, and Prince Xavier of Bourbon-Parma was picked as his successor. But in event of restoration of the monarchy, it is probable that Prince Juan, son of former King Alfonso XIII, would be chosen by Franco.

The Fascist triumph also meant that the Spanish counterrevolution had definitely got out of the hands of the military clique, the "700 generals," who started it. What began as a simple coup d'état, designed to restore the old privileges of army, landlords and church, developed into a large scale civil war. Having failed to win within a few days, Franco had to depend more and more on German and Italian aid, and for Spanish mass support on the Falangists, Fascist-minded civilians recruited mostly from the lower middle class. He had to make promises to the Falangists to get them, and soon their blue-shirted corps outnumbered the red-bereted Carlists three or four to one. Serrano Suner, a prominent attorney who escaped from prison in Madrid early in the war, soon saw the Fascist side was the one where the power would lie. And he sold Franco on a Fascist course.

But in spite of claims of settlement of the political situation, Spain, although tightly sealed to outsiders, seems still to be a rumbling volcano. Franco has alienated many of the military heroes who helped him win the war—General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, the bloodthirsty czar of Andalusia, famed for his radio boasting, who was dismissed from his command after slapping Serrano Suner in a quarrel at Burgos; General Juan Yague, commander of the Moroccan Army Corps and conqueror of Barcelona, dismissed, and later reinstated as Air Minister; General Miguel Aranda, who held Oviedo in the long siege and took Teruel; Jose Solchaga, Carlist commander of the Navarrese troops, who helped Yague in the Catalonian drive, and Jose Moscardo, defender of the Alcazar.

Against the vanquished Republicans, the White terror is proceeding with unabated fury. Firing squads still crash out their volleys of revenge, and 500,000 Loyalists are in concentration camps.

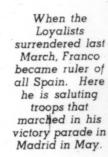

But their resistance has not been stamped out. Several thousand are still hiding in the Asturian hills, or striking back in individual assassinations. And the stubborn Catalonian autonomy movement is carried furtively on.

On the Loyalist side, Azana was succeeded by Caballero (on white horse). A Socialist, Caballero included five other Socialists and two Communists as well as Republicans in his Government (there had been no Communists in the Cabinet before). Later he let Syndicalists in.

With Caballero losing the war, he was forced out after quarreling with the Communists, and was succeeded by Dr. Juan Negrin, a left wing Socialist, physician and financial expert. He united Communists and Republicans for a time and suppressed the Anarchists.

Hitler and Mussolini immediately moved to strengthen their influence with Franco and reap their reward. Franco's brother-in-law, Serrano Suner, Fascist leader of Spain, rose to greater importance. Here Serrano (indicated by arrow) is shown behind Count Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, as the latter saluted Italian troops in Barcelona last month.

6. PAUL VORIES McNUTT

QUESTION MARKS OF 1940

SINCE the middle of January, when his campaign headquarters were opened in Indianapolis, Paul Vories McNutt, new head of the Federal Securities Administration and lately United States High Commissioner to the Philippines, has been an open candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. He has said, however, that he would retire from the field if President Roosevelt—who appointed him to his two most recent positions—sought a third term. His campaign manager, Indiana National Committeeman Frank McHale, has described his candidate as a "conservative New Dealer." McNutt is 48 years old, a native of Indiana, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Indiana University and the Harvard Law School. He has been a professor of law, dean of the Indiana University Law School, wartime artillery officer in the United States, Governor of Indiana and national commander of the American Legion. As Governor, he re-organized the State government, balanced its budget with the help of a gross income tax, dominated its Legislature and rescued its impoverished schools, received the title of "dictator" from his critics, and angered labor leaders by use of State troops in strikes. He is conceded to be energetic, shrewd, an able administrator—and a very handsome man. He married Kathleen Timolat of San Antonio, Texas, in 1918; they have a daughter. McNutt is a Methodist, a Mason, an Elk, a member of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and a variety of country clubs.

This is the sixth of a series of "carica-traits" of presidential possibilities, drawn in color exclusively for PICTURES by Hod Taylor, Chicago artist. The order of their publication is not intended as a ranking of the subjects as candidates.

PARIS AIMS GUNS AT THE SKY

Even a slight contact with the wing of a plane would cause a shell from this 40-millimeter gun to explode. It is placed near the Seine River. Fed automatically, it fires 140 shots a minute, and is one of the most utilized weapons of the French defense forces.

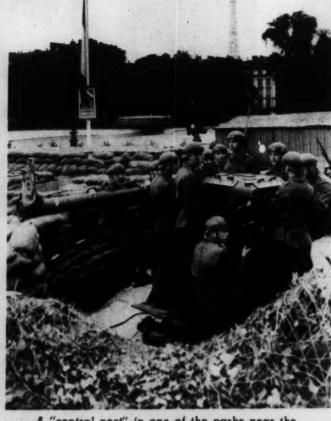

One of the most efficient weapons against aircraft is this 75-millimeter gun on the esplanade of the Invalides, near the heart of the city. It fires 20 shots a minute, has a maximum horizontal range of 13,000 meters, and an altitude of 9000 meters.

RANCE industriously continues to fortify herself against attack. Paris, the heart of France and therefore almost certain to be the first objective of air attacks, makes ready for aerial warfare. Anti-aircraft artillery and modern defense equipment strategically located in some of the most beautiful boulevards and parks demonstrate the nation's preparedness for an emergency. Some of the emplacements and equipment for repelling bombers are shown in the picers are shown in the pictures on this page.

OH GOSH, HONEY LET'S DON'T THEY BORE ME STIFF!

Here's Lesson Number One in how to influence people: do the things they like to have you do for them. And that includes serving Griesedieck Bros. Beer. There's no better "hospitality insurance" than an ice box full of this famous old brew, ready and waiting when friends drop in. They'll enjoy it-and so will you - because it's Double-Mellow. Yes, Griesedieck Bros. Beer is made mellow in the brewing, kept mellow in the bottle. Air, the enemy of beer flavor, is kept out of the aging vats and taken out of the bottleneck by perfected methods exclusive with Griesedieck Bros. Ask for Griesedieck Bros. Beer by name when you're eating out-order a case or a "Pick-Up Pack" to keep handy at home. It's so delicious you'll want to drink it often-so economical you can afford to.

HOW TO CLEANSE AND SOOTHE TIRED STRAINED EYES

Why suffer from burning, smarting eyes? Murine brings quick, amazing relief. A drop in each eye night and morning—that's the modern way to cleanse and soothe your eyes. Murine is alkaline—its six extra ingredients completely wash away irritation and strain*. Get Murine from your druggist today.

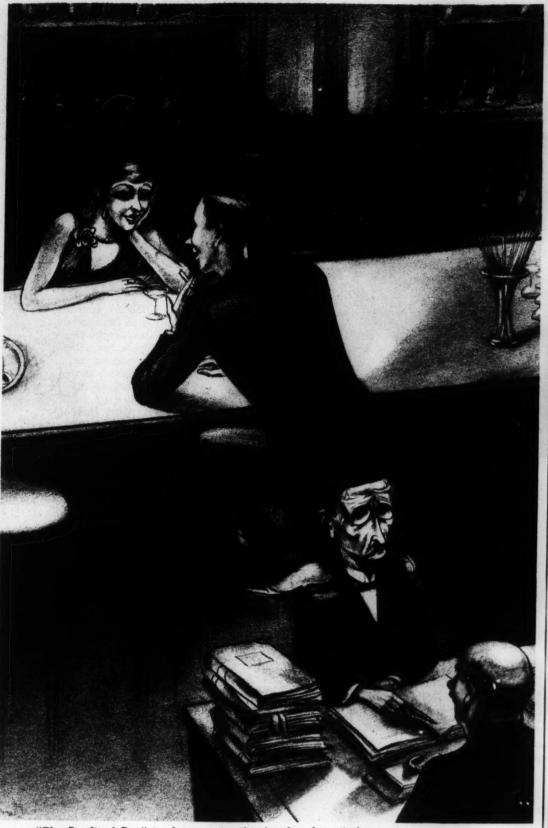

*Strained eyes due to driving, sun glare, dust, swimming, closework, movies, late hours. Murine will not correct eye deficiencies. For such deficiencies, see a competent professional at once.

This has some slight saving grace of humor. It depicts a wealthy American protesting to his valet that spring should arrive in the garden, not on the terrace, on seeing the misplaced flower.

Ry-Krisp offers simple sensible way to take off 7 to 8 pounds a month

Want to lose weight without loss of energy—without drastic diet or exhausting exercise? Then get the new Ry-Krisp booklet and follow the dependable kind of reducing plan doctors have recommended for years.

Based on these 3 simple rules:

1. Eat sensibly. With the Ry-Krisp booklet as a guide, a normal person can eat what he likes and lose about \(^{1}\sqrt{4}\) pound a day.

2. Exercise moderately. A brisk walk each day or reasonable amount of your favorite exercise is all you need.

3. Enjoy 2 or 3 Ry-Krisp wafers as your only bread at each meal. Important because each tasty whole rye wafer has only 20 calories yet supplies valuable minerals and bulk.

Free Reducing Booklet gives easy-to-follow plan used by thousands to lose excess fat. State whether booklet is for man or woman. Address Ry-Krisp, 5226 Checkerboard Square, St. Louis. Offer good only in U. S. and Canada.

VEALS THE BEAUTY HIDING IN YOUR HAIR

The first snowstorm, as the cartoonist sees it, sends weakling Americans to the drugstore for medicines.

ARTOONS satirizing America and its ways of life are widespread in Germany. Some of the nation's leading artists have been drafted by the Ministry of Propaganda in the effort to make this country, often envied by Germans because of its comparative prosperity, appear ridiculous, and thereby stress the feeling of Germany's own superiority. On the whole the lampoons in the Government-controlled press are vicious, frequently contradictory, and although apparently intended to amuse, they seldom possess any actual humor. Those reproduced here are all by Charles Girod, and were smuggled out of Germany after their recent publication.

He describes the historic execution this way: "At 7 in the morning we took our places confronting the Hill of the Bells, the execution site, and soon we saw three priests approach, chanting and telling beads, followed by Maximilian and his two Generals, Miramon and Mejia. Maximilian looked very pale, but I think I have never seen a more noble looking man. There was silence save for the mumbling of the priests as we were given the order to aim. The Balancing Bull of Oglesby OW that all bulls are named Ferdinand, it takes more than the name to make one attract attention. The Ferdinand owned by Foy Walker of Oglesby, Texas, has that extra something: He can do tricks, without the aid of a bee. Bought at auction last December when he was a small calf, he has learned 17 tricks in the last eight months under Walker's tutelage, and become a family pet. Here he is shown going through part of his repertoire.

A command has sent Ferdinand to this perch, but he looks rather longingly at the ground.

In a prayerful pose. Before climbing on pedestals and such he requires his trainer to put his own foot on the high place to show it is safe.
